Bay St. Louis town council at a meeting Friday night, with city officials in an effort to have the city council rescind a curfew imposed last week ordering any juvenile of the streets by 11:00 p.m.

Mr. Larroux told the officers that he and his wife were sitting on the beach when a car with three young people stopped and inquired if they were "catching anything." Mr. Larroux replied that they were not fishing and the car drove off, proceeded down the beach and turned around. The car turned off its lights and as it passed Mr. & Mrs. Larroux, one of the occupants of the car threw a bottle at them.

Mrs. Larreau received a cut on one of her knees but did not require medical attention.

Deputy Garcia told the Echo the couple were lucky to escape serious injury as the heavy bottle cracked near the couple breaking two several large pieces, one of which struck Mrs. Larreau.

The officer stated that over 17 car speakers have been stolen from Shell-Via Drive-In Theatre since August 16 and the thefts are continuing. He reported that several of the speakers were used to burn $900 worth of place and beer glass at the Elmore and Grand Co. Ultimate Avenue.

to the city officials which asserted that the law-abiding youngsters of the town "fain a great injustice had been done to them by the passing of the curfew ordinance. The petition asked the officials to reconsider the action and possibly stipulate that the curfew apply only to those who have been previously arrested or convicted for violation of a city ordinance or other law and not to all the teen-agers.

A alternative to this proposition was that the city officials provide the young people with a written statement of the effects of violence or destruction occur within these weeks after

Dear Mrs. Barringer:

Attached you receive a letter from Gen. Scho which I presented to you when we visited last week.

He was booked and was turned over to the FBI after police learned that he was wanted as a fugitive from justice from Colorado. He has been the object of a nationwide manhunt since his escape.

Harrison County Sheriff J. J. Wittmann stated Morris will be tried for the fourth time in September term of circuit court in Hancock County "if we can get him back by Sept. 9 when

The run down man, Gossamer, had been with Morris since his escape. He had taken Morris' 6-year-old son to East Beach, Calif., shortly before his escape from the Harrison county jail.

ARMED CAPTURE

Morris escaped from the jail in Guilford by cutting his way out of a wire fence on the roof of the jail. He is charged with the slaying of novelty shop owner Charles Finkbeiner 1956, WAREHAM (FOLKINGHAM).

The FBI reported a Gulfport girl friend of Morris, Mrs. Peggy Goudelock, was taken into custody

When asked his opinion of the program, Sept. Ingram stated, "I am 100% in favor of any course of this worthwhile type that will help my kids, and we are trying to rearrange our schedules to fit the course into the curriculum. Mr. Ingram will serve as co-moderator of the course and will be assisted by Principal Joe

The young chairman was asked by Mr. Victor Fournet at the meeting if he would report acts of vandalism or other crimes to the authorities if he knew who committed them and he replied that he would as would other "decent young people."

The meeting was conducted in an orderly fashion with a number of adults and teen-agers taking part in the discussion.

The teenagers' petition also stated that they felt that the imposing of the curfew cast a bad light on them and the town and their parents. Lynett Korgensen said, "I am ashamed of being a member of the teenage group as a result, being made feel like a delinquent. I feel that out of town kids are responsible...

A will, in its simplest sense, is a legal statement of a person's wishes about what shall be done with his property after he is dead.

Through his will a person may determine not only what shall be done with his property but who will share in what he leaves behind, in money, property or other worldly goods, including insurance and heirlooms.

A will makes it possible for one, while living, to designate an executor to carry out his wishes after he is gone. In the absence of a will, the court steps in to appoint an administrator, possibly some stranger, to dispose of the property left by one who dies intestate—without a will.

Death is something none of us likes to contemplate or discuss - it is such a final and permanent state of inability.

However, it is possible for a person to continue to carry on, in some measure, after he is gone. One can designate one's heirs and what will be done with what after the Government collects its share. One will one can do many things for his dependents when one has ceased to be, but one was actually living.

An executor for a number of estates, and department, practical experience tells us that one should make a will. Consult your attorney what you want done with your property when you are no longer around to direct it. If possible, the executor and administrator will be the possibility of the executor's stronger to intend in your personal affairs you have. It is just as important to consider the use of it as to have it made. It is on earth is finished, who has failed to make.

See your lawyer, make your last will without delay and small payment of the facilities of your bank to fulfill your responsibility to others.

How Good Will Weather? (The Great Question)

While it is often difficult for the average person to tell whether his forecast is the result of an honest forecast or some other source, the following suggestions are given to help him decide. First, in the first place, should he ever forecast anything? A reply which is longer or more complicated than "yes" or "no" is usually a sign of a dishonest forecast. Second, should he ever forecast anything? A reply which is longer or more complicated than "yes" or "no" is usually a sign of a dishonest forecast. Third, should he ever forecast anything? A reply which is longer or more complicated than "yes" or "no" is usually a sign of a dishonest forecast.
